The Class of 1957 dedicates its ELLSWORTHIAN to Miss Ann G. Duffy in recognition of her loyal service as advisor to the yearbook staff.

We have found the task of editing the ELLSWORTHIAN both difficult and easy — difficult, in striving to meet the high standards of the annuals published under her direction, and easy, because of her helpful advice and willing assistance.

Class

Dear Class of 1957,

As we are gathered here tonight, each preparing to follow his own vocation, I can't realize that our four memorable and exciting years at Ellsworth are rapidly drawing to a close.

What a sight we must have been on that bright September day! Those great big seniors already had us classed as unruly, unbalanced, unnecessary and underprivileged freshmen — all 125 of us. They should see us now. We felt that we were an extremely promising and talented group all ready to descend on Ellsworth Memorial High School.

Those impressive seniors decided to throw a party for us polite little freshmen. Being polite, we honored them with our presence at the annual Senior Get-Together. Those seniors entertained us in fine style. Don't you remember those Fou Fou Girls (?)

Later in the fall the sophomores invited us to a Barn Dance which included an evening of dancing and games.

With our usual industriousness we selected our class officers who were John Ellsworth, president; Cecelia Balf, vice president; Mary Clark, secretary; and Jean Ellison, treasurer.

In the spring we gave our first party. We looked toward the future and selected as the theme for our Freshman-Sophomore Party 1999, the age of space ships and trips to the moon. Remember that gorgeous star-studded sky and space men?

After a short summer we returned to Ellsworth as ruly, necessary, and privileged sophomores. Our first order of business was to elect the following class officers: John Ellsworth, president; George Nevers, vice president; Janet Stoddard, secretary; and Dotty Lou Morris, treasurer.

On the evening of October 15 the Sophomore Indians gave an Indian Party for the freshmen. It was our turn to honor those new freshmen and to make them feel at home. The Indians whose combined efforts made the Pow-wow a success were Cecelia Balf, Lucinda Belden, Ronald Benicak, Marilyn Burnham, Charles Butler, Jean Ellison, Ruth Hallowell, and Beverly Sandone.

Our class showed its ability in a pantomime assembly when two members of our class, Janet Stoddard and Wayne Besaw, led us to victory over the seniors by pantomiming the titles of books, movies, songs and television shows. We certainly were proud when we won that contest.

Members of our class again represented us when Edmund Watson and Marilyn Burnham were chosen King and Queen of the Wonderland dance sponsored by the seniors.

Undoubtedly the most exciting and memorable event of our sophomore year occurred in the University of Connecticut gym when the Ellsworth Bobcats outclassed Windsor Locks and won the C.I.A.C. basketball tournament. The 52-33 victory made Ellsworth the first team in Connecticut basketball history to win seven Class C championships.

As spring rolled around, it was time for the honors to be passed out. Ruth Hallowell was selected to edit the "South Winds" for the coming year. It was a swell job she did too. Janet Stoddard was to be our representative on the cheering squad, while Jeanne Martin was elected vice president of the S.C.H.E.

As June slowly approached, most of us were a little sad because we knew that the wonderful friends we had made from East Windsor would be leaving us to enter their new high school in the fall.

At long last we were juniors and a year filled with activities faced us. Again we elected the following classmates to lead us: Lloyd Roberts, president; Richard Burnham, vice president; Janet Stoddard, secretary; and Janet Maizon, treasurer.

For the first time we were all in one homeroom. Room 21 fairly bulged as we transacted some very important business. For the first time the traditional Ellsworth rings were changed by our class. We looked over numerous samples and finally decided upon a synthetic ruby ring with the Ellsworth crest mounted on the stone.

When the three one act plays were presented on November 18, our class proved that it had some excellent talent not only in acting but in salesmanship.

Mr. Verne Olsen's own play entitled "Whose Turn Next," included Lance Stoker, while Coach McMillian's play "Tea" featured Nancy Harrington. Mrs. Esther Bond directed the satire on radio dramas entitled "Soap Opera" which presented two more juniors, Marjorie Krawski and Richard Burnham.

We received $79.94 as winners of the ticket selling competition for the event. This amount based on a per capita average added to our slowly growing treasury.

As far as athletics are concerned, we certainly upheld the reputation of Ellsworth. It was such athletes as Russell Anderson, Joe Burns, Steve Hopkins, Bernard Krawski, Robert Mullen, George Nevers, and Lloyd Roberts who participated in the various sports.

Our girls were also interested in sports with Maureen Kenny, Bertha Jarvis, and Judy Smith leading the list in girls' basketball, while Marilyn Burnham, Jean Ellison, and Jeanne Martin acted as team managers.

"Boy, am I hungry!" was the cry of Janet Stoddard as she came into the cafeteria. She reached her hand into her lunch bag, screamed, and pulled her hand out with a surprised look on her face. She had found a towel instead of a sandwich. The moral of this story is "Don't take your towels to lunch. They just don't taste good."

Do you remember the mysterious case of the missing cat? During one of the parties Bob Milkie heard the timid cries of a cat as he entered Room 11. Bob to the rescue. After a thorough search he discovered a black cat in the ventilator.

The spring was crowded with activities and the outstanding juniors and seniors were honored at the annual All-Ellsworth Night banquet.

The annual Pops Concert under the direction of Miss Antonina Dziob followed closely with several talented juniors included in the events of the evening. Outstanding members included were: Bruce Martin, Richard Burnham, Marjorie Krawski, Janet Maizon, Gerald Baxter, and Edmund Watson.

About this time we were all looking forward to the New York trip which was going to take the place of a Junior Prom. Incidentally the East Windsor High juniors invited us and the entire Ellsworth student body to attend their first prom.

History

At 8:54 A.M. on April 20 the juniors boarded the train at the Hartford station and headed for New York. It was the first train trip for several of our cohorts. After three hours of card playing and singing we arrived in a drizzly New York City. Lunch was first on the agenda. According to the schedule, we were to eat at the automat, but it was too crowded. We were off to find a slightly less crowded restaurant. We followed Mr. Verne Olsen and Mr. Harland Cass around until we arrived at the B and O Cafeteria, where we ate.

Following a short break, we hailed taxis and headed for pier 44 and the Circle Line Tour around Manhattan Island in the rain. Upon completion of the boat trip, which included all the sights of New York City, we again headed for a restaurant. We were fortunate in getting into Stoffer's Restaurant, where we had a scrumptious meal.

Next on the agenda was another taxi ride to Madison Square Garden, where we viewed the Ringling Brothers', Barnum and Bailey Circus. Then came the mad rush to Grand Central Station so that we wouldn't miss the train at midnight. Some of us were lucky and were able to hail taxis, but others weren't quite so fortunate — they had to walk. A tired but happy group climbed onto the train and headed for Hartford. The excitement wasn't over yet, for several members of our gay little party had purchased some salamanders at the circus and amused themselves by tormenting the rest of us.

After a very slow train ride home we arrived safe and sound in Hartford about 3:45 A.M.

The juniors were again proud to say "We won." We sold the most tickets for Mr. Verne Olsen's presentation of the "Ellsworth Story." This one and one half hour production included shots of the most recent school socials and club activities.

Another highlight was the annual S.C.H.E. Fashion Show with our own girls modeling clothes which they had made themselves. Jeanne Martin, narrator, led the audience through Holland in connection with the theme "Tiptoe Through the Tulips."

Later in the year we held elections for coming activities. Jean Ellison and Jon Pandozzi were selected to represent us at Laurel and Nutmeg States to be held at the University of Connecticut during the summer. Ruth Hallowell was pronounced Ellsworthian editor with her staff including Jean Ellison, Lance Stoker, Lloyd Roberts, Marilyn Burnham, Jeanne Martin, Janet Maizon, Jon Pandozzi, and Russell Anderson. The faculty chose Janet Stoddard and Lance Stoker to serve as Class Marshals. Class Night and Graduation Ushers were announced at the same time.

As this busy year was drawing to a close, we all looked forward to the day when we could tread on those sacred front steps. On the bright June day we had to actually kneel in pairs before those seniors and repeat the passwords "Hail Seniors! Hail Seniors! Hail Seniors!" At long last we were on our way and quite suddenly we were — Seniors!

With the eighth graders invading the second floor of E.M.H.S. the seniors were put up on the third floor in Room 38. To start out right we chose our very capable class officers: Jon Pandozzi, president; Richard Burnham, vice president; Janet Stoddard, secretary for the third consecutive year; and Jean Ellison, treasurer. The S.C.H.E. opened activities with Jeanne Martin taking over as president, and the "South Winds" editorial board boasted several seniors including Marilyn Burnham, Nancy Harrington, Ruth Hallowell, and Jean Ellison.

Maureen Kenny and Lance Stoker were given the serious task of compiling the Class Will; Janet Stoddard and Richard Burnham were class prophets, and Jeanne Martin recaptured the past in the Class History.

We chose "Song For a Summer Night" as the theme for our Senior Get-Together under the guidance of Mrs. Esther Bond and Mr. Harold Kibbe, class advisors. The officers crowned Nancy Nevers freshman queen for the evening.

The evening's entertainment will long be remembered with those movie and television celebrities present. Remember Jean (Marilyn Monroe) Ellison and Janet (Elvis Presley) Maizon and their hit tunes that really wowed the audience? Patience and Prudence, Marjorie Krawski and Janet Maizon, with their adorable little dresses and that ace reporter Lloyd (John Cameron Swaysey) Roberts were also on hand to make the party a true success. A short play entitled "Yes Means No" presented by several seniors was also on the program.

Our class brains were announced and were awarded extra books. The ten top seniors were as follows: Lance Stoker, Janet Stoddard, Marilyn West, Jeanne Martin, Ruth Hallowell, Jean Ellison, Lloyd Roberts, Maureen Kenny, Mary Anne Welles, and Bruce Martin.

Soccer season rolled around once more and we had quite a successful season. The spirit of our three senior cheerleaders, Janet Stoddard, captain, Maureen Kenny, and Marilyn West added to this success.

Prizes, prizes, and more prizes was the motto of our two-week magazine campaign. The leg and arm weary seniors sold $3,792.58 worth of magazines, netting $1,220.24 for our treasury. Plans for our Washington trip sparked the campaign. Leading the competition as team captains were Janet Stoddard and Richard Burnham with their advisors Mrs. Bond and Mr. Kibbe respectively.

Janet's team won, but the top salesman Robert Milkie represented Richard's team well. Second and third place winners were Ruth Hallowell and Richard Burnham. Ruth defeated Richard by only 16 cents.

Roland Boutin and Charles Mullen were the lucky winners of portable radios in the drawing for those selling over seventy-five dollars worth of magazines.

Our class boasted two girls, Marjorie Krawski and Janet Maizon, who participated in the All-State Chorus which held its festival at the Bushnell Memorial in Hartford.

And thus our four glorious years at Ellsworth are drawing to a close, leaving us with a feeling of pride for having been a part of it. We have made many never to be forgotten friends. As our class motto proclaims, "Life is a picture; paint it well."

Always,

Rich—Pardon me. (Very casually and continues reading sign. He suddenly realizes that he recognizes Janet.)

Rich—Janet Stoddard! Where have you been keeping yourself lately?

Janet—Why Richard Burnham! What are you doing in this part of the country? I thought that you were teaching math in a California high school.

Rich—No, I have come back to teach in Connecticut.

Janet—Isn't that strange! I have been teaching French at Waterbury High School.

Rich—Let's stop gazing at these signs and go in and have our fortunes read.

Janet—That's a splendid idea.

(They go into booth, but the fortune teller is not there. They sit down and gaze into the crystal ball.)

Rich—Janet, do you see what I do? Why, there's a new high school with Ellsworth written above the front door. That reminds me of our dear old class of '57.

Janet—Just a few minutes ago I saw Ed Watson selling bicycles in his own booth down the fairway.

Rich—One of the main reasons I came to the park today was to see "Fireball" Butch Hudson race his mighty Eldorado around the track.

Janet—I have heard a great deal about Butch, and I think that I'll drop in and see his skillful driving this afternoon. By the way, did you happen to read in the paper last night that poor Charlie Mullen was taking his first practice parachute jump and forgot to pull the ripcord and he landed in Dr. Lance Stoker's famous chiropractic clinic? Charlie will surely get back in shape with Dr. Stoker's skilled hands.

Rich—Speaking of doctors, I went to a hospital in California just before I came east in Lloyd Roberts' private "Kitty Hawk" jet, to get my ingrown toe nail operated on and who should be head nurse at the hospital but Mary Anne Welles. Incidentally, Lloyd Roberts has a pretty nifty air service.

Janet—I flew to Europe last year in a very nice plane myself, and who should I see there but Jon Pandozzi digging up the ruins of "Lost Acres." So far he had found only a tooth brush and a loaf of bread.

Rich—Well! Well! When I was out in California, I thought that I would send my mother home an orchid, so I went to a flower shop. Guess who owned and ran it? Ed Podann—remember that we thought he would be a hot rod driver.

Janet—He really fooled us, didn't he? Did you hear about Russ Anderson? He is now the coach of that mighty, stupendous "Globe Trotters" basketball team. Russ always was a big fellow.

Rich—Yes, I knew that he would get the most out of his vitamins that he consumed in his boyhood days. Speaking of basketball, I heard that Steve Hopkins is the physical education instructor at Ellsworth. He got kicked in the shins while he was coaching soccer, and he went to that famous "Mai-Kraw Clinic" to be fixed by that colossal medical team Janet Maizon and Marjorie Krawski.

Janet—Janet and Marge were always great partners. Did you see in the Hartford Times that Gail Lehtonen received the Nobel Prize in literature, mainly for her autobiography? She is the youngest writer in history to receive this award. Could you ever guess who is in the field of art?

Rich—Of course! Lucille Gagnon is the cover artist for Post magazine with Bertha Jarvis and Theresa Melo as her private secretaries.

Janet—I hate to break away from the subject, but I saw one of our classmates at my home about a week ago. The pipe from the kitchen sink was leaking, so my dad called "Fix-it-all" Wisneski's Plumbing Service, and who should come but Billy Wisneski. Bill got his thumb caught in the pipe and had to have the pipe cut away.

Prophecy

Rich—Gee whiz! I hope that doesn't happen too often! Remember that garbage collector Bob Milkie and how he sold subscriptions to all his people on the garbage route during our magazine campaign? Well, now Bob is landscaping his former magazine customers' yards. He really does a terrific job!

Janet—You know, Rich, we elected Nancy Harrington as our class actress and sure enough, she is starring in "Midget" with James Bean.

Rich—Nancy will probably be a second Liz Taylor. I saw on my new color television set last night that Captain Roland Boutin and his two first mates, George Nevers and Jerry Baxter, were made heroes by the U. S. Navy. These three brave sailors saved a poor helpless mermaid from drowning in the cold waters of the Atlantic.

Janet—It is rumored that Bernard Krawski is trying to take over Ezra Taft Benson's office as Secretary of Agriculture.

Rich—I think that Bernie will be a great help to the farmers. Remember my cousin Marilyn Burnham? Well, I stopped in to see her, and her mother told me that she assists Jean Ellison in "Freida's Painless Therapy Treatment." Marilyn holds the patients down while Jean painlessly cures them of their aches and pains.

Janet—I was told by Ed Watson that Joe Burns has become head foreman of the Pratt and Whitney plant located in Wapping.

Rich—Did you hear that that brilliant engineer Joe Raymond invented a train that can go anywhere in the United States without tracks?

Janet—No, but speaking of trains I took the Sun Liner to New York and I stayed there for two days, Martin's Night Spot was where I spent my first night. Bruce Martin was sitting on the floor while pounding away "I've Got the Blues" on the piano. And guess who brought my meal? Arlette Nicholson. She is head waitress at the night club.

Rich—In her high school days, Arlette was a good waitress at the Dell. I understand that Bob Mullen is a four star general and was appointed Secretary of Defense. Bob was always thinking of ways to defend our country, and now he has his chance.

Janet—He sure has! I read in the East Hartford Reporter that Judy Smith was appointed secretary for the East Hartford Board of Education.

Rich—Remember that little redhead Maureen Kenny? She is now managing "Mo's Acrobatic School" for children. Maureen guarantees sore muscles and aching bones or else ten free lessons.

Janet—I don't think that Maureen will have to worry about giving too many free lessons. Giving Maureen a great deal of competition is Ruth Hallowell's Nursery School, where Jeanne Martin is head dietician. I understand that these two girls are turning out the future greats of the country.

(While Janet is talking Marilyn West walks in as the fortune teller.) Janet and Richard look at her and both shout at the same time—"Why Marilyn West! We always thought that you would turn out to be an interpreter."

(The three sit down and talk.)

Marilyn—I never expected to see you two here!

Rich—We have been using your crystal ball as we reminisced about our classmates of 1957. We hope you don't mind.

Marilyn—Of course not!

Rich—Yes, it certainly does! But we only scratched the surface. Well, Janet, I do hope we can have another gab session soon, but meanwhile let's see what our expert with the crystal ball has in store for us.

Class Will

We, the stupendous, colossal, conceited, generous, remarkable, exalted Class of 1957, in fairly sound mind, considering the circumstances, feel it fitting and proper to bestow upon the teachers and lowly, inferior, unruly, undignified, unbalanced, untalented underclassmen our Last Will and Testament, so that the school will not suffer from the departure of our class too acutely.

To the juniors we leave the honor of using the front steps. Make sure they are kept clean, juniors.

To the silly sophomores we relinquish our dignity, efficiency, intelligence, respect, and talents. Use them well, sophomores.

To the frightful freshmen we leave the honor of three more years of organized confusion at E.M.H.S.

Janet Maizon surrenders her ability to make up excuses to Donald Burr. You should find it quite helpful at times, Donnie. Janet did.

Cynthia Ordway is the recipient of Lucille Gagnon's ability in art. You are receiving a fine inheritance, Cynthia, and we know you'll use it well.

Ruth Hallowell leaves her faithful position in the South Winds room to Steven Goddard. Remember, Steve, there will be plenty of deadlines to meet. Ruthie can vouch for that.

Bruce Martin bequeaths what is left of the school's pianos to Mr. Woods. What ever became of those broken hammers, Mr. Woods?

Upon Joan Eckert is bestowed Bertha Jarvis's talent in basketball. Keep up the good work, Joanie. Bertha did.

Since the patents have expired, Joe Burns cheerfully wills his stale jokes to Tim Nadeau. I hope those jokes go over big, Tim.

Marilyn Burnham reluctantly bequeaths her love of parties to Helen Krawski. It certainly helps to have a big recreation room, Helen. If you don't believe it, ask Marilyn.

Bernard Krawski leaves his, or what was his, new Chevy to Joyce Krawski, his sister. Remember, Joyce, the town has a resident state trooper now.

Warren Andrulat is the recipient of Gail Lehtonen's clever methods of getting the family car. It's really quite an art, Warren.

Marilyn West joyfully wills her job at Howard Johnson's Restaurant to anybody with a lot of patience. Remember, there will always be dissatisfied customers to contend with.

Richard Burnham very unwillingly leaves his inherent ability to scare up a meal to anybody who wants it. You'll have to be pretty good to beat our class cook.

Jeanne Martin leaves her blushing ability to William Courtney. There was only one drawback, Billy; the teachers could always tell when Jeanne was the guilty one.

After four years of debating, Lloyd Roberts leaves.

Roland Boutin thoughtfully wills his violin that we have never seen to Karen Adams. Don't forget to wipe off the half inch of dust, Karen.

Upon Judith Cutler is bestowed Nancy Harrington's performing ability. Well, Judy, we'll be expecting to see you in all the school entertainments during your next three years at Ellsworth.

Charles Mullen wills his position on the audio visual squad to that person who is as dependable and efficient as he was.

Sally Cassarino receives Judith Smith's love of sports. Judy did very well in sports, Sally. See if you can do as well.

Robert Hudson wills his front row seat in Mr. Olsen's U.S. History class to Robert Starr. I hope you can keep up with those war movies; Butch did.

Arlette Nicholson leaves her knowledge of transferring from another school to any new Ellsworthian. Arlette said it wasn't too bad.

Marjorie Krawski willingly leaves all her knowledge of working in a dry-cleaning store to anyone who could make use of it. If you want any spots removed, see Margie.

Due to circumstances beyond her control, it is necessary that Maureen Kenny leave her cheerleading uniform to any eligible junior.

We declare this document, signed in the presence of witnesses, to be the Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1957.

Witnesses: Mrs. Dorothy Martyn
Mr. Charles Sharos

Signed: Lance Stoker
Maureen Kenny

Class Poem

For some of us school is over,
For others it has just begun;
But whatever we decide to do
We'll do it "on the run".

Four years ago we were rookies
Hard-pressed to listen and learn;
Now we must be on our way,
And let others take their turn.

Now we're about to leave here
To seek our chosen fields
To become responsible men and women
And to failure never yield.

We're glad to have gone to Ellsworth;
We've had happy times — some sad.
But that taught us to be patient
And to take the good with the bad.

Wherever we go, from day to day
We'll do our very best;
We'll bear the many ups and downs —
That is the biggest test ! !

Nancy Harrington

The Ellsworthian published annually by the Senior class is actually more of a classbook than a yearbook. It includes pictures of events from February 15 of the previous year through February 15 of the year of publication. Also, pictures used in the book date back to the freshman days of the graduating class.

SOUTH WINDS, the school paper, is published bi-weekly under the leadership of Mr. Harland Cass. Having just completed its eleventh year of publication, all classes are well represented on a staff of forty-five members.

Issues are exchanged with many local high schools and are also sent to schools throughout the United States and Hawaii.

Student Council

The Student Council is made up of the class officers from each class and committee chairmen. This year's council was led by Jon Pandozzi, president; Jeanne Martin, secretary; Walter Kupchunos, administrative assistant; and Mr. Adams, faculty advisor.

Through the Student Council students learn the principles of government and leadership and also learn to make the school run smoothly with wide student participation in activities.

The Social Crafts and Home Economics Club consists of students who are now or were at one time students in home economics. Under the guidance of Mrs. Janeth Tapley the club sponsors many activities during the school year. The Big Sister Party, held at the beginning of the year, acquaints the new members with the club and its functions. This year the S.C.H.E. made homemade candy for their Christmas project. The group also visited a candy factory and took a trip to G. Fox & Company.

Highlighting the events of the year is the spring Fashion Show in May. Each model wears the clothes she made during the course of the year.

Tiptoe Through The Tulips

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Woods, consists of four seniors and twelve underclassmen. As usual the orchestra was on hand at assemblies and contributed its portion to the Pops Concert.

Audio-Visual Squad

The Audio-Visual Squad, supervised by Mr. Olsen, is open to both boys and girls in all classes. The members of the squad operate all of the sound equipment in the gymnasium as well as projectors or phonographs used in the classrooms during the school day.

Photo Club

The Photo Club, under the direction of Mr. Olsen, meets twice a month during the school year. The boys from all classes learn to operate the various cameras and exposure meters and to develop and print films. The club has taken trips to various parts of Connecticut to take pictures of interest.

Office Assistants

The office assistants help the school secretary by running errands and doing clerical work during their regularly assigned study periods.
